Subject: Microsoft Settlement

Dear USDOJ,

I would only comment on one part of the settlement. Microsofts proposal to donate computer equipment and software to needy schools.

Although I applaud the concept, I think it does not server as a punishment to the monopoly. Microsoft does not yet dominate the education market. This is simply an oportunity for them to try to gain dominance in the market.

I strongly recommend rejecting any part of the settlement that might increase Microsofts market share in the education market.
